Alien emissary assigned to the Monocyte as a liaison for their (our) people. (Who all happen to be the same or no or any gender, as suits needs/feelings/wants.) Possessed of mental and physical gifts far beyond those of humans. Highly trained in their (our) species' form of hand to hand combat. They (our) record most of the log of events as Chalke cannot be bothered. Pronouns – We/Our/Ours

AUDITION SIDE:

Emissary Fralgon's log, Earth date January 23, 2097. We continue to maintain log entries as our commander, Peter Arthur Chalke, sees no interest in documenting our exploration. Stationed aboard a Galactic Medical Cruiser, Monocyte, representing the United Space Associated Federated Galactic Alliance of Friendly Species on a mission of exploration, relief, and aid, we have been tasked with maintaining relations between the people of Earth and ours. How Commander Chalke intends to deal with the paperwork after the mission eludes me, but it is our hope that our log will continue to document and perhaps explain our strange adventures. And, perhaps, we will let Chalke copy our homework.

Following the "Sagittarian Affair," detailed in our previous log entry, the United Space Associated Federated Galactic Alliance of Friendly Species have directed that Monocyte crew resources be diverted to assisting second-in-command, Dr. Evelyn "Montana" Trixie, gather neo-organic materials in order to further her research for a universal cure for all disease. Following Sagittarius, Commander Chalke ordered a full re-stock of the ship's weaponry, which has caused no slight bit of friction between himself and the Doctor. We are now on our way to the bridge to brief Commander Chalke of our analysis of the incident. We can only hope that his mood has improved after clashing with the Doctor...
