

Commander Paul Allen Chalke –Male, Caucasian, 30's.

Square jawed, self-assured commander of the Monocyte. More brawn than brain but with a lot of heart. Plagued by ongoing nightmares which feature in most episodes. Unknowingly from Earth's distant past, unknowingly clinically depressed. Very Phil Hartman as Troy McClure.

Emissary Fralgon –Non-binary/trans Late 20's/early 30's

Alien emissary assigned to the Monocyte as a liaison for their (our) people. (Who all happen to be the same or no or any gender, as suits needs/feelings/wants.) Possessed of mental and physical gifts far beyond those of humans. Highly trained in their (our) species' form of hand to hand combat. They (our) record most of the log of events as Chalke cannot be bothered. Pronouns – We/Our/Ours

Security Chief Miles Murtagh –Male, Caucasian, LGBTQ+ 40's.

No-nonsense, though xenophobic and hetero-centric, head of security. Devoted to the United Space Associated Federated Galactic Alliance of Friendly Species, but extremely proud of his Earth nationality (think Scotty or Chekov from Star Trek: TOS). A by-the-book type, of course, and should be a counter to Fralgon in almost every way. Hero-worships Chalke and is probably, unknown to himself, in love with the Commander. Way, way in the closet. Irish/English/Scottish accent (in that order of preference)

Crewman (#7)/"The Monocyte" Male, Caucasian, 20's/30's

--- "Crewman" – Every bad luck, "red shirt" crewman who ever existed, however, blessed with boundless optimism and an ability to escape "in the nick of time." Their catchphrase? "How do we get out of this?"

--- "The Monocyte" – Initially, the ship's computer. Later revealed to sentient. Casting notes: White male. As "Crewman," earnest, naïve, full of wonder. As "The Monocyte," cool, monotone, matter of fact; very HAL from 2001.

Ambassador Shala –Female, Actor of Color, 30's/40's

Grangian Ambassador Stationed on the Monocyte during their first (episodic) adventure and stays on board for the remainder of Around other Grangians, stiffly formal, as her station requires. Around members of the Monocyte crew, highly inquisitive and friendly. Will also play all other Grangians.

(Fan-favorite) Phineas Q. Progress – Trans/Gender-fluid, Actor of Color, 40's.

Intergalactic conman, raconteur, scumbag, and fan-favorite. Completely aware that he's a trope and may/may not have fourth-wall awareness.
